Chesbro a Power in the Box and With the Stick-Bostons Outplayed and Behind All the Way-Big Crowd to See the Pennant Race Begin-The Results.

The American League pennant race began yesterday with cold weather, but with big crowds and lively interest all along the line. The winners were the New Yorks who played in championship form and downed the crack Bostons; the Philadelphias, who disposed of Washington; the Clevelands, who vanquished Chicago, and the Detroits, who won from St. Louis. NEW YORK (A. L.), 8; BOSTON (A . L.), 2. in spite of a snowstorm in the morning and genuine football weather in the afternoon, the American League season was opened on the Washington Heights diamond yesterday in a blaze of glory. Nearly 16,000 persons passed the turnstiles and saw the New

With the subway still unable to carry the throng to the park and a counter attraction over in Brooklyn, this outpouring of enthusiastic ball fans far exceeded the expectations of the club officials, who were warmly congratulated on the successful beginning of the success.

of the season.

Had the day been warm, it is fair to say that the beautiful grounds overlooking the Hudson River would have held a crowd twice as large as that which braved the blustery gale from the northwest and shivered for more than two hours while the players went through their evolutions.

With coat collars turned up and feet stamping incessantly the great crowd stayed to the end—a fitting tribute to the popularity of America's national game. At least one man was to be envied. He sat in the grand stand behind the Boston's bench and ever and anon took long, earnest pulls at a black bottle that seemed to have no bottom. The decorations were elaborate and when Rayne's Sixty-ninth Regiment Band struck up a march and headed the players in the time bonored parade across the field thousands of small American flags were waved aloft in patriotic enthusiasm which swept the stands from end to end and lasted until the musicians had finished playing "The Star Spangled Banner" Hall an hour of lively practice served to keep the rooters busy and then at 3:30 o'clock Judge William M. K. Olcott, with Col. Abe Gruber at his elbow, threw a new white ball to Umpire Frank Dwyer—a proceeding that formally opened the pennant campaign.

From that moment until the struggle ended there was not a dull moment. The game sparkled with brilliant plays by both teams, scientific points bristling everywhere. The Bostons quickly found that they were upagainst a remarkable ball team, and though they struggled gamely against fate they were forced to yield to the inevitable.

The Bostons quickly found that they were up against a remarkable ball team, and though they struggled gamely against fate they were forced to yield to the inevitable.

"Happy Jack" Chesbro was the lion of the hour from a local standpoint. In 1902 Chesbro, then a member of the champion Pittsburgs, was easily the best pitcher in the country. He went back a little in form last year, but yesterday he showed all of the marvellous skill that did so much to bring the pennant to the Smeky City. In the language of the profession, Chesbro "had everything." Lightning speed, deceptive curves, a tantalizing slow ball and wonderful control, which was marred with but a single base on balls, served to make the heavy hitting Bostons look small and puny in their efforts to connect.

With cool headwork and superb fielding of the errorless kind behind him, Chesbro shut out the champions, who humbled the Pittsburgs last fall, for six innings. Then Freeman, of home run fame, knocked a drive to the carriage gate in right field, where the uncompleted condition of the playing surface made it impossible for Keeler to stop the ball. So it went for a home run and broke the ice for the visitors.

the Bostons made, and they were field down to six hits.

But it was not alone with his strong right arm that Chesbro won undying fame, for he led the New Yorks in the batting line with a magnificent home run to deep right centre in the second innning, and again in the fourth he cracked out a sizzling double bagger. No wonder was it, therefore, that the crowd gave him an ovation and then waited to shake him by the hand when the day's work shake him by the hand when the dav's work was over. It was a great day for Chesbro and made the other pitching stars on the bench—Powell. Hughes and Griffith—yearn for a chance to win similar glery. In the field, at the bat and on the base paths the New Yorks showed that they are In the field, at the bat and on the base paths the New Yorks showed that they are ready to play some of the finest ball ever seen in this vicinity. Uncle Anson watched them from the grand stand with looks of extreme admiration. "They will take a lot of beating," said the old Chloago captain, "and I wish them luck." Their fielding was so sharp and clean that nothing got away. Conroy, Elberfeld, Keeler and Ganzel made stops and catches that brough the crowd to its feet again and again, and when the veteran Cy Young, who pitched for Boston, was pounded in the first inning, there was a scene that beggars description. Young had his speed with him, but it mattered not. He did not get the hang of thing until it was too late and then Chesbro was by the occupants of Rooters' Row, the world's champion put up a smart game in the field, but it did not compare in point of brilliancy with that of the home team. Criger caught fine ball.

Roger Bresnahan of the New York Nationals, who is temporarily on the shelf with a wrenched side, was among the spectators. He hobnobbed with Grifflith's men in the clubhouse before the game and said to Tressurer Frank Farrell just before the first ball was intoled.

"I am rooting for you, and I think you will beat these fellows, 3 to 0."

There was a roar of delight when the Bostors were blanked in the first inning after Collins had knocked out a single and reached second on a passed ball. Then came the New Yorks' turn to face the curves and shoots. Conroy opened with a rattling three-bagger to right, and the flags were fluttering everywhere. Fultz smashed one straight at Young, who, after holding Conroy at third, made a wild throw over Lachance's head. Conroy galloped home with the first run and Fultz ran like a deer to third.

Keeler followed with a two-bagger to left, on which Fultz scored, and as Elberfeld worked in the neatest kind of a sacrifice "Wee Willie" went to third, whence he made the third run on Anderson's cracking double to left. Anderson romped home on Williams's base hit, while the latter got around on a wild throw by Lachance. That clinched the victory. The score:

SULLIVAN KNOCKED OUT. Jack O'Brien Defeats Crack Boston Fighter in Hot Bout at St. Louis.

St. Louis, April 14 .- Jack O'Brien, the noted Philadelphia middleweight, treated the sports at the West End A. C., this city, to a surprise by knocking out Jack .Twin) Sullivan of Boston in three rounds to-night. Very few expected such a short encounter in view of Sullivan's previous essays against O'Brien and his established reputation The bout while it lasted, was very even, but O'Brien's heavy swings did the word and soon toppled Sullivan over to defeat. Sullivan was getting Sullivan over to defeat. Sullivan was getting along nicely until O'Brien, who is a stiff puncher, nailed him on the neck with the right and put him down. The blow sapped Sullivan's strength, and he could not pull himself together after that.

To-night's battle was considered important for the fact that the winner will be eligible to meet Tommy Ryan for the middleweight title.

When they broke away a mix-up took place. Sullivan pegged away with the right, driving this hand for all he was worth into O'Brien's wind. O'Brien after getting off again staggered Sullivan with a well aimed right swing which landed flush on Sullivan's neck. Seeing his chance, O'Brien waded in and put the Bostonian down for the count with a left on the jaw. Sullivan got up in weak fashion and endeavored to clinch. He was groggy and in a bad way. O'Brien shoved him off and with another hard right on the neck Sullivan was floored again. He went down like a beam and attempted to rise. But he could not and was finally counted out by Referee Harry Sharpe. Sullivan seemed to be hurt and had to be assisted to his corner. But he was soon all right and left the building apparently in as good shape as ever.

Dr. Walter G. Douglas last night defeated prize of the Interborough 14-inch balk-line tournament at Maurice Daly's Academy. It was the third game of the second series of play-off games in the triple tie. Douglas, ir play-off games in the triple tie. Douglas, in this tourney had never been successful in games with Lewenberg. But last night he broke the spell and won by many points. Both men played consistent billiards, but Douglas was the stronger and more accurate. Douglas tallied ten high runs in all, which netted him 185 points, or more than half of the final score. Douglas ran out in the fiftieth inning 77 points shead.

The New York National League baseball team began its struggle for the pennant yesterday in an encouraging manner, taking the Brooklyns into camp easily. NEW YORK (N. L.), 7; BROOKLYN, 1. Wintry but enthusiastic was the opening of the National League championship season at Washington Park vesterday afternoon. The snow of the morning did not in the least The snow of the morning did not in the least chill the desire to see the national game once more act under way, and while there have been bigger crowds at openings here the stands at washington Park held all the spectators they could hold with comfort.

The game resulted in the defeat of the Brooklyns by Mctiraw's fast and merry men by a score of 7 to 1. The figures represent about the proportion of merit between the two teams. The New Yorks were at least seven times as good as the Brooklyns. Strong hopes are entertained that this year's New Yorks will win the National League pennant, and if their clip yesterday is that which they intend to maintain they will win the pennant. The game they played was superior in texture, and the strength and thoroughness of it, were sustained from flagfall to finale. On the other hand the playing of the Brooklyns was melancholy and their fielding depressed. But so far as the opening went, there was naught to dim its glamour. It was a cold, winuy day, to be sure; but baseball cranks have overcoats, and though it was unseasonable weather for baseball the fact that there was baseball would have made the rooters brave days more frigid than posterday. Better frappe baseball than none at all. Moreover, the diamond dish could not long remain cold with such a warm team as the New Yorks to serve it up.

A few fancy frills were attached to yesterday's opening sideshow wrinkles, as it were, which the national game can do without. The raising of the flag and the saluting of Old Glory, the parade of the ball players across the field, stirring music—all these are fitting to and in keeping with the dignity, simplicity and general joyousness of the occasion, but there were other "ideas" more original that appropriate.

The automobile end of the opening was not particularly impressive. It served, however, to give the New York players a scare. A wagon on the Brooklyns Bridge crashed into the vehicle in which the New York players were going to the grounds, and the players were unceremoniously dum chill the desire to see the national game once more get under way, and while there have been Mathewson's performance was practically a monologue. Matty is still the whitehaired boy, and his halo has lost none of its lustre.

Jones was wild and ineffective in the box for Brooklyn and was the main source of defeat. The entire New York team played splendidly. Browne making three hits and Devlin at third doing fast and clean cut work. The New Yorks were swift on the bases and watchful, in fact a team has not often made so impressive a start.

Browne opened the attack by stinging a liner to centre, and he moved up on Devlin's out at first, Midget McCormick making a pretty throw to Doyle. The New Yorkers present roared with delight when McGann in the hard to right, scoring Browne. Mertes's hickory also was inspired, and another single to right scored McGann, the latter having gone to second base on the throw-in of his hit to catch Browne at the plate. Mertes was put away at second base, and P. McCormick tossed H. McCormick out at first.

The Brooklyns opened bravely. Sammy Strang slashed a two-bagger to left, Sheckard drew a base on balls, and Lumley sacrificed. Strang soored on Dobbs's fly to centre, and Mathewson pounced on Babb's grounder and threw the ex-New Yorker out at first.

With Dahlen disposed of in the second ining, Jacklitsch made a bad throw of Gibert's was caught napping at second. Jones to Babb, but singles by Mathewson and Brown scored Bowerman. For Brooklyn in the second stanza Doyle banged a whistling liner to centre and made a fine steal of second. Then Jack came to grief. He slipped in getting back to second ahead of Bowerman's throw and was squelched then and there.

From the third to the seventh he and Doyle were doubled up. A base on balls, and the Brooklyns did not get a hit, and when Babb did hit safely in the seventh he and Doyle were doubled up. A base on balls, and throw and was squelched then and there.

From the third inning, and Bowerman's throw and was squelched then and there.

From the third inning, and Bowerman's hit, a passed ball and Browne's third single sent Bowerman o
